Delhi High Court seeks NTA's stand on plea concerning NEET answer key

Navdeep Singh Sahni

New Delhi, June 7: The Delhi High Court sought the National Testing Agency's (NTA) stand on Friday on a petition filed by a NEET-UG candidate raising grievance regarding a question that had two correct answers in the answer key. A vacation bench of Justice DK Sharma asked the NTA's counsel to seek instructions on the petition, which has prayed that equal marks should be awarded to those who did not attempt the question as has been done for those who attempted either of the two correct answers. The petition has said the principle of fairness in a competitive examination mandates that all candidates should be evaluated on an equal footing and alleged that the authorities compromised the fairness by awarding marks to two correct options when the instructions had clearly indicated that only one option was correct. In order to avoid a negative impact on her score, the attempt the question and scored 633 out of 720 marks, with a total percentile of around 98 and an all-India rank close to 44,700 in the entrance examination, the plea has said. The petitioner has said a single mark can significantly alter her all-India rank and therefore, sought a direction to NTA to correct and re-publish the NEET-UG 2024 results, ranks and percentiles based on the revised marks. "On 17-year-old petitioner chose not to June 3, the respondent published the final answer key. It was observed that for question no. 29 of Test Booklet Code R5, both options 2 and 4 were considered correct, contrary to the instructions that stated only one option could be correct," the petition has said. "Not awarding marks in the case of a wrong question and forcing candidates to mark one, in the case of a question having two correct answers, is antithetical to the instruction that only one answer shall be right. It is submitted that it is extremely arbitrary for the respondent to expect candidates to attempt a wrong question, when there is negative marking and each mark can make a difference of hundreds of ranks, if not thousands," it has added. The plea has further said the results declared by the authorities were arbitrary and based on unfair grace marks given to various candidates, without the application of mind.

ments or transcribing the proceedings," the CJI said, adding adoption of technology at all levels of arbitra-

Tejinder Kaur Babbar

New Delhi, June 7: Ahead of the NDA parliamentary meeting on Friday, JD(U) also held an internal party meeting of its leaders and newly elected MPs at Bihar CM Nitish Kumar's Delhi residence. JD(U) has stuck to its demand of the Railway Ministry and special status for Bihar. According to sources, Sheohar MP Lovely Anand has demanded the Railway Ministry. Her husband and Bihar strongman Anand Mohan had also met Kumar and put forward the demand seeking the Railway Ministry. Mohan said, "The demand for the Railway Ministry is confirmed. It has been in Bihar's share. Even Bihar CM Nitish Kumar was a Railway Minister and the good work he has done needs to be taken ahead. The backward Bihar needs the ministry. CM Kumar took Bihar out of 'jungle raj' and made a devel-

to give it wings, then the 'special' status for Bihar should also be fulfilled. I had met Nitish Kumar but it was a cordial meeting." With 12 MPs, the JD(U) is the second biggest BJP ally after the Telugu oping state in the last 16 years. If we want Desam Party's 16 in the NDA. Newly elected MP from Bhagalpur Ajay Kumar Mandal said, "I never think of becoming anything in the party. I am a soldier of the party. It is the leader who will make decisions. I will accept whatever they decide and will do as they say. I cannot say who will be the ministers. I haven't put any demand." Munger MP Lallan Singh, Rajya Sabha MP Sanjay Jha and Sitamarhi MP Devesh Chandra Thakur are also in the running to get Cabinet berths. Thakur has won the Lok Sabha elections for the first time defeating RJD's Arjun Rai. Bihar Deputy speed down from 84 to 76 kmph in 3 years

New Delhi, June 7: The average speed of Vande Bharat trains has decreased from 84.48 kmph in 2020-21 to 76.25 kmph in 2023-24, the railway ministry said in a response to an RTI query. Railways officials said not only Vande Bharats but many other trains are also maintaining cautionary speed at places were "huge infrastructural work" is underway. "Besides, some Vande Bharat trains have been launched in difficult terrain areas where there are speed restrictions due to geographical reasons or extreme weather conditions," a Railways official said. Citing the example of the Vande Bharat train between Mumbai CSMT and Madgaon, an official of Central Railway Zone said, "Most of the Konkan railway area is 'ghat' section where trains pass through low height mountain ranges. It is a difficult terrain area where increasing speed could compromise safety." "Things become very challenging during the monsoon season when we have to keep the maximum speed for all trains at 75 kmph," he added.

tion proceedings will make such proceedings more efficient and more accessible. "I firmly believe that now is the time for countries such as India to step up to the occasion to create and promote a culture of commercial arbitration. The robust institutionalization of arbitration will further the culture of arbitration in the Global South," the CJI said in the presence of the UK Supreme Court, the President Lord Reed, Deputy President Lord Hodge and other judges. Highlighting that India has set up the India International Arbitration Centre and the Mumbai and Delhi International Arbitration Centre as examples, the CJI said mere creation of institutions was not enough. "We have to ensure that these new institutions are not controlled by a self-perpetuating clique. These institutions must be based on the foundation of robust professionalism and the ability to generate consistent arbitral processes. Transparency and accountability, values by which the work of conventional courts is assessed and critiqued, cannot be alien to the world of arbitration," the CJI said. Maintaining that "the future of arbitration lies in streamlining the law and practice of arbitration on these three stages", he said, "As practitioners of arbitration and adjudicators of disputes, we must reflect on the future of arbitration because the future is already here. We just have to recognise it and adapt our legal systems to respond to the challenges.'

Kangana Ranaut 'slap' incident: Farmer unions rally behind CISF constable Kulwinder Kaur

Chandigarh, June 7: Farmer unions have started rallying behind CISF constable Kulwinder Kaur, who allegedly slapped BJP MP from Mandi Kangana Ranaut at the Chandigarh airport on Thursday. The SKM (Non-Political) and the Kisan Mazdoor Sangharsh Committee today announced their support for the suspended CISF constable. Farmer leaders alleged that Bollywood actor Ranaut had called Kulwinder a "Khalistan Kaur". Kulwinder had claimed that her mother was part of the 2020 farmers' protest, when the actor had commented that "women protestors could be hired for Rs 100". Leaders of the two groups, who have been protesting at the Shambhu and Khanauri borders since February 2024 against the "unfulfilled" promises made to them by the BJP, said they would meet the Punjab DGP to seek proper investigation in the case. On June 9, an Insaaf March from Gurdwara Amb Sahib in Mohali to the office of SSP Mohali will be held to seek justice for Kulwinder, they said. The farmer leaders also objected to words used by Kangna Ranaut after the incident at the Chandigarh Airport. Scoffing at the actor for calling the people of Punjab separatists, they demanded an FIR against her for trying to incite people. Farmer leaders Jagjit Singh Dallewal and Sarabjit Singh Pandher said that Kulwinder's brother was a part of their organisation and was active in farmer movements. The leaders said that farmers across the country have managed to defeat the BJP in several rural constituencies in the recently held Lok Sabha election. "People have taught them a lesson. They wanted to cross 400 seats, but people stopped their victory march at 240 seats.

Will BJP be able to damage control before Assembly polls?

Naresh Malhotra

Chandigarh, June 7: After the BJPled NDA won only 17 Lok Sabha seats in Maharashtra, Deputy Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis offered to resign, taking full responsibility for the results. He requested the top BJP leadership to relieve him from the responsibilities in the state government to enable him to strengthen the party ahead of the Assembly elections. The NDA had set a target of 45 seats for the alliance in the state that sends the second largest number of MPs, as many as 48, to the Lok Sabha. Results from Maharashtra significantly dented the overall tally of the NDA. The BJP, which contested 28 seats, won nine, down 14 from the 2019 Lok Sabha election. Overall, the party managed to get just 17 seats along with allies Chief Minister Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena and Ajit Pawar's Nationalist Congress Party. Failure to counter opposition the Constitution, farmers' issues related to the price of onion, cotton and soybean etc were said to be the key reasons for the NDA's poor showing along with sympathy factor for "original leaders of the NCP and Shiv Sena, Sharad Pawar and Uddhav Thackeray, respectively". Fadnavis' offer to silence detractors? As expected, Fadnavis' offer was met with resistance from NDA leaders, including Chief Minister Eknath Shinde. Observers say the BJP leadership is not expected to accept his resignation and Fadnavis, too, may not pursue the matter. The announcement is said to be only meant to keep critics within the party and the government at bay, as per reports. However, Fadnavis is also believed to be not on the same page narrative regarding the scrapping of with Shinde and Ajit Pawar on several Sabha debacle in time for the issues. Some of his recommendations were also overruled by the central leadership during the Lok Sabha polls. Can BJP, allies bounce back The big question is will the BJP and allies be able to bounce back from the Lok Assembly polls scheduled later this year. The Ajit Pawar faction contributed just one seat to kitty NDA the in Maharashtra. According to reports, five of his MLAs were missing at the review meeting to discuss the party's Lok Sabha poll performance, leading to speculation about its future. Meanwhile, according to sources, the BJP leadership is also believed to be "working on wooing back Uddhav Thackeray with the help of common friends and RSS". According to observers, the BJP's "political machinations" to gain power in Maharashtra never allowed the state to really settle down since the last Assembly elections and there was a "good amount of public sympathy" for Uddhav and Sharad Pawar.

Gang of six strikes at warehouse, ties up guard, steals 2L goods

- Gurgaon: Police arrested six dacoits on Thursday after they struck at a warehouse and fled with products worth Rs 2 lakh in Sector 89 on Wednesday. The accused tied up the watchman before fleeing. Police seized the stolen products and the van used to commit the offence from the accused.
- Ajab Singh from Dhankot, a GMDA contractor for laying water pipelines in the city, had set up a warehouse on Bamdoli road on Sector 89 to store pipes and other stock products. Indra Raj Singh from Bijnor was deployed there as the warehouse watchman.
- At 4.20am on Wednesday, Indra Raj called Singh, informing him that six persons came to the warehouse in a car and tied him up with a rope at knifepoint. They locked Indra Raj in his room and fled with a motor, gas cylinder, and several metal items from the warehouse.
- After the offenders fled the spot, Indra Raj untied himself and called Singh. Based on Singh's complaint, police registered a case under IPC sections 395 (punishment for dacoity) and 397 (robbery or dacoity, with attempt to cause death or grievous hurt) on Wednesday night at Sector 10 station. Noida revokes rehab deal offers to mop up 2.4k cr from Gardenia Group

Noida. The Noida Authority has initiated action against developers who showed interest in UP govt's rehabilitation package but did not clear 25% of their recalculated dues that would have made them eligible for the scheme. For now, the Authority has come down heavily on two projects of Gardenia Group in sectors 75 and 46. It has cancelled the zero-period waiver on interest incurred during two years of the pandemic to Gardenia and decided to auction some of its land and unsold inventory to recover dues amounting to more than Rs 24,000.

Officials said the company owed the Authority Rs 1,717 crore and Rs 692 crore for Eco City in Sector 75 and Gardenia Glory in Sector 46, respectively. Apart from cancelling the waiver, the Authority has also decided not to allot any new plots to the four consortium members of the company involved in building these projects until the dues are fully recovered. According to an estimate, Gadenia would have got a relief of Rs 636 crore for its Eco City project had it agreed to the govt's rehabilitation package and Rs 135 crore for Gardenia Glory. This would have brought down the dues considerably.Officials said that to recover Eco City's dues, the Authority would cancel the allotment of 60,000sqm of commercial land allotted to Gardenia in Sector 75 and attach some of its underconstruction structures. The Authority, however, clarified that all third-party rights created before the date of lease cancellation will be honoured by the new developer that will be hired and existing establishments would continue to function as usual.Gardenia, which was allotted 6 lakh sqm in Sector 75, has subleased 2.2 lakh sqm to 11 other companies. The under-construction projects that will be attached will be completed by the new developer, the Authority officials said.For Gardenia Glory in Sector 46, where the developer was allotted 51,700 sqm, the Authority has decided to auction 122 unsold flats that were sealed earlier to recover Rs 692 crore due to it.Both these projects involve 3,379 buyers. The Authority said it was committed to ensuring the registry of flats and the action initiated against the developer was intended at giving a push to the process."There are a total of 1,586 flats in the society. Except for those sealed by the Authority, the others have been occupied since 2015. But not a single flat is registered. We have recently filed a petition in the Supreme Court against the Noida Authority and the developer for failing to execute registries. Notices have been issued to them," said Anurag Dwivedi of Gardenia Glory.

Gardenia disputed the amount quoted by the Authority as dues.Saurabh Pandey, the media in-charge of the company, said, 'We want to take advantage of the zero period by depositing 25% of the dues upfront. According to our estimate, they are Rs 600 crore and Rs 450 crore for the two residential projects. We have filed cases in court, challenging the amounts of Rs 1,700 crore and Rs 630 crore that Noida Authority has cited as dues. The matter is sub-judice. We will abide by whatever decision is taken by the court."Sources in the Authority said there were at least 20 such projects whose developers were likely to face action for not opting for the rehabilitation package.

To put pressure on default builders and mop up dues, the Authority has started pasting notices in societies of these developers that are already occupied. These builders have been warned that they could lose their allotments and their unsold properties could be attached.

Termination notice for Ecogreen ready, MCG seeks ULB's approval final termination notice, which it's planning to issue to solid waste management concessionaire Ecogreen, to the urban local bodies (ULB) department seeking its approval.According to the draft, Ecogreen has ceased its door-to-door waste collection operations, collection and transportation of waste from secondary collection points, decentralised waste processing at its material recovery facilities, management of legacy waste at Bandhwari landfill, and leachate treatment, among others.After signing the contract in Aug 2017, Ecogreen had to meet some targets like 100% coverage of households for door-todoor waste collection within a year, recycling 80% of the collected waste within a year, 100% segregation of waste at source within six months, and work continuously for seven days. However, the concessionaire has failed to achieve any of the targets.

Gurgaon. MCG has drafted and sent a The agreement also mandated 100% scientific waste disposal within six months of establishing the sanitary landfill. Despite this, the landfill site has not been developed, and the waste is being disposed of in an unorganised and chaotic manner on the designated land for the development of the landfill, read the draft."We sent the termination draft to the ULB department on Thursday so we can serve the notice to Ecogreen after receiving approval. We have also shared the draft with the municipal corporation of Faridabad for their consent and inputs," said an MCG official privy to the matter.

ACG also mentioned in the draft that it is compelled to impose a penalty amounting to crores for the breach of the agreement by the concessionaire. The draft also states that the National Green Tribunal's strict directions for pollution control in the city came after Ecogreen's shortcomings. Furthermore, the MCG cleared that

Tough road ahead for Chautalas after LS drubbing for INLD & JJP

Gurgaon: Singer-rapper Fazilpuria's first shot at politics flopped. But the Lok Sabha election went even more badly for his party JJP.

Fazilpuria, whose original name is Rahul Yadav, got just 13, 278 of the 15.9 lakh votes cast (0.8%) across all nine assembly segments of the Gurgaon LS constituency. JJP, till March BJP's partner in the ruling coalition in the state before they parted ways, ended up with a similar vote share in the state, at 0.87%. The other regional outfit the election results leave with deep concern is INLD, the party founded by Devi Lal and once a major political force in Haryana. The rift in the Chautala clan led to the formation of JJP by his great grandson Dushyant Chautala in 2018.

Its Gurgaon candidate Sorab Khan received just 4,917 votes, which was less than the 6,417 NOTA votes polled. INLD's vote share in Haryana was little better than JJP's (1.74%), with Jat support consolidating behind Bhupinder Singh Hooda, the former CM who led the Congress LS campaign and will likely be the party's face in the assembly polls scheduled later this year. The fight for both regional parties, all of whose candidates lost their deposits, now is for relevance in state politics. For Dushyant, especially, holding on to

"It is crucial that patients with dengue symptoms should not take over-the-counter medication. They should consult doctors and should act as advised," the CMO added.Yadav said the health department has started geo-marking areas where patients are being diagnosed with dengue."We are also keeping note of any emerging hotspots. We have asked MCG to carry out fogging in areas of the city with positive cases to curb the menace of mosquitoes," he said. The city recorded 276 dengue cases, including one fatality, last year. This figure was 440 in 2022 and 327 (including a fatality) in 2021. Over the past few years, the count of cases touched a maximum of 451 - in 2015. According to doctors, it is essential for people to remain vigilant and seek immediate medical attention if they have any symptoms

226 acres to be given back to JAL if it pays 200cr YEIDA to discuss at board meeting

- Noida. Jaiprakash Associates Ltd (JAL), which recently went insolvent, has been embroiled in a legal battle with Yamuna Expressway Authority in the Allahabad high court for the past four years over the cancellation of 1.000 hectares allotted to it in the special development zone (SDZ) along the expressway. On May 14, JAL proposed to pay Rs 200 crore to the Authority and sought restoration of 226 acres.
- The company aimed to sell this land to repay its bank loan and resume construction work at a stalled residential project and other sports facilities in the SDZ. With the matter now with the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT), the Authority has decided to discuss the issue at its upcoming board meeting to reach a decision. Officials said JAL's insolvency is because of a bank loan, and resolving this debt could potentially prevent the insolvency proceedings.
- "After reviewing the proposal, we have no problem restoring the land. However, we will need to keep the current developments in mind. We will take legal advice and put up the case before the YEIDA board for a final decision," said Yamuna Authority CEO Arun Vir Singh. The NCLT on Monday ordered the initiation of insolvency proceedings against JAL, six years after lenders led by ICICI Bank first sought action.
- In Feb 2020, YEIDA cancelled JAL's land allotment over non-payment of dues — while the Authority pegged the amount at Rs 3,621 crore, including land premium, lease rent, and additional farmer compensation, JAL says it is significantly lower at Rs 1,483 crore. The Allahabad HC is currently hearing the case.

US reacts as China objects to Narendra Modi's exchange with Taiwan President

Washington Amid China's protest over the exchange of greetings between Narendra Modi and Taiwanese President Lai Ching-te, the US State Department said such congratulatory messages between two foreign leaders are a part of diplomatic business."I would say that such congratulatory messages are the normal course of diplomatic business," State Department Spokesperson Matthew Miller told reporters on Thursday at his daily news conference.He was responding to a question on China protesting over Modi's comment that he looked forward to having closer ties with Taiwan after his victory in the just concluded Lok Sabha elections.Earlier on Wednesday, Modi's remarks came in response to a congratulatory message from Taiwan President Lai Ching-te on his election victory.

- Lai, elected as Taiwan's President last month, in a message posted on X said: "My sincere congratulations to Prime Minister @narendramodi on his election victory. We look forward to enhancing the fast-growing #Taiwan-#India partnership, expanding our collaboration on trade, technology & other sectors to contribute to peace & prosperity in the #IndoPacific."In his reply posted on X, Modi said: "Thank you @ChingteLai for your warm message. I look forward to closer ties as we work towards mutually beneficial economic and technological partnership."China views Taiwan as a rebel province that must be reunified with the mainland, even by force.n Thursday, China objected to the exchange between the Indian and Taiwanese leader, insisting that New Delhi should resist Taiwan authorities' "political calculations".
- Addressing a media briefing, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Mao Ning said China opposes "all forms of official interactions between the Taiwan authorities and countries having diplomatic relations with China. There is but one China in the world. Taiwan is an inalienable part of the territory of the People's Republic of China".

Biden campaign's surprise recruit to pursue anti-Trump Republicans

- Washington. US President Joe Biden is making a pitch for his re-election to Republicans who do not support their party's standard-bearer, Donald Trump, in November's election, a Biden campaign official said on Thursday.
- The Democratic president's campaign has hired a national Republican engagement director: Austin Weatherford, who was chief of staff to former Republican congressman Adam Kinzinger, an outspoken critic of Trump, the official said. Weatherford has been hired "to head up outreach efforts to independents and moderate Republicans who know what a danger Donald Trump is to the country if re-elected for a second term", the official said.Biden and Trump are in a tighter rematch for the White House than in 2020, according to Reuters/Ipsos polling. Biden's support among voters without a fouryear degree is down 10 percentage points from the same period in 2020, the analysis found.
- Most national opinion polls are showing a tied race. Trump has often dismissed members of his party who do not fall in line behind him as "RINOs,", for Republicans in Name Only, for party members he sees as disloyal. The Trump campaign did not return a

Books, kitchen, TV: Pak government submits details on Imran Khan's prison life

The Pakistan government released pictures of the jail room of former prime minister Imran Khan, showing a bedroom with a study table, a kitchen and books, including Nelson Mandela's autobiography, to counter claims of mistreatment inside prison.

Islamabad. Pakistan's government submitted to the Supreme Court on Thursday details of the living conditions of jailed former prime minister Imran Khan, seeking to rebuff his claim of mistreatment and of being held in solitary confinement without access to lawyers. The government submission seen by Reuters included photographs of the cell that showed a collection of books, including Nelson Mandela's autobiography "Long Walk to Freedom", apparently intended to highlight Khan's freedom to read what he wished in jail. The submission also contained a list of family and friends, lawyers and party members who have seen Khan since he was jailed in August last year on corruption charges. Khan, 71, is also fighting dozens of other cases that he and his party say are politically motivated to thwart his return to power. The government asked the court in its submission to appoint a was being kept in solitary confinement. It is a contradiction to the claim that a former prime minister is entitled to an A-class cell with an air-conditioned room and a helper to attend to the errands," his party said in response to the submission. The pictures in the government submission showed a messy bedroom with a study table, a chair, a single bed, a cooler, a washbasin next to a washroom in the corner, with a flat TV screen hung on a wall. It shows shirts thrown on the back of the chair and trousers, pants and a towel hung on a wall. Another picture shows a long walkway with barracks on both sides, describing it as an "exclusive gallery for walking twice a day". Another shows what it says is a separate kitchen with condiments, one more showed a collection of books on Islam, history and politics, and other pictures show a room with an exercise bike and fitness equipment.

UPDATED A woman who says she is the inspiration for the relentless stalker at the center of Netflix's "Baby Reindeer" sued the streaming giant on Thursday for defamation and is seeking at least $170 million in damages. Fiona Harvey, a Scottish attorney living in England who says the character Martha on the widely viewed limited series is clearly based on her, filed the lawsuit in federal court in Los Angeles that also alleges that Netflix was negligent, intentionally subjected her to emotional distress and violated her right to publicity.On the British black comedy based on a one-man stage show by Richard Gadd, Gadd plays a doppelganger named Donny Dunn, who in his day job at a pub gives Martha, a bubby, quick-to-laugh customer, a free cup of tea. She eventually becomes a stalker who sends him tens of thousands of emails, tweets at him hundreds of times, smashes a bottle over his head and gouges his eyes, sexually assaults him, and is eventually arrested and sent to prison. None of this actually happened, according to the lawsuit.

The lies that Defendants told about Harvey to over 50 million people worldwide include that Harvey is a twice-convicted stalker who was sentenced to five years in prison, and that Harvey sexually assaulted Gadd", the lawsuit says. "Defendants told these lies, and never stopped, because it was a better story than the truth, and better stories made money".Harvey also never previously stalked a police officer, as Gadd's character learns on the show, the lawsuit says.

Netflix responded with a statement saying, "We intend to defend this matter vigorously and to stand by Richard Gadd's right to tell his story".

The lawsuit alleges the streamer did nothing to determine whether the stalking, assault, and convictions were accurate, nor did it do anything to understand the actual relationship betwee Harvey and Gadd.Netflix and Gadd destroyed her reputation, her character and her life", the suit says.Gadd is not named as a defendant, but emails sent seeking comment from attorneys representing him were not immediately returned. The show premiered on Netflix in April, and Harvey publicly came forward and gave an interview to journalist Piers Morgan about a month later. But the lawsuit says viewers and British media outlets had identified her well before that, and they have tormented her constantly since. This was possible, the lawsuit says, because on the show Martha creates social media posts identical to searchable posts by Harvey, including one in which she says, "my curtains need hung badly", which is used as a sexual euphemism on the show.

Trump ally ordered to report to prison by July 1 for defying US Capitol riot probe

Washington DC Steve Bannon, a former top adviser to Donald Trump, must report to prison by July 1 to serve a four-month sentence for contempt of Congress, a federal judge said on Thursday (local time). The decision means Bannon, a right-wing media firebrand who maintains influence in Trump's orbit, will likely be behind bars for a critical stretch of the US presidential campaign as former President Trump faces Democratic President Joe Biden in the November 5 election. The order by US District Judge Carl Nichols in Washington came after a federal appeals court last month rejected Bannon's bid to overturn his conviction for spurning a subpoena from a congressional panel that investigated the January 6, 2021, attack on the US Capitol.Bannon told reporters outside the courthouse he would ask the US Supreme Court to intervene, casting his prosecution as politically motivated."All this is about one thing: shutting down the MAGA movement," Bannon said, referring to Trump's "Make America Great Again" campaign slogan.Bannon was convicted in 2022 of two misdemeanour counts of contempt of Congress for refusing to turn over documents or testify to the Democratic-led House of Representatives committee.Bannon will be the second former top official from Trump's White House to go to prison for refusing to cooperate with the committee. Peter Navarro, a former trade adviser, is currently serving a four-month term.

Bannon was allowed to avoid serving the sentence during his appeal. Prosecutors moved to end that reprieve after a three-judge panel of the US Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit rebuffed Bannon's challenge to his conviction.

At least 30 killed after Israeli strikes on UN-run school in Gaza

At least 30 people were killed after Israel launched targeted strikes at a UN-run school in in central Gaza's Nuseirat camp. The Palestinian news agency Wafa said thousands of displaced Palestinians were sheltering at al-Sardi school, which is linked to the UN Agency for Palestinian refugees (UNRWA), when it came under attack.

Cairo/ Jerusalem Israel hit a Gaza school on Thursday with what it described as a targeted airstrike on up to 30 Hamas and Islamic Jihad fighters inside, and a Hamas official said 40 people were killed, including women and children sheltering at the UN site.Video footage showed Palestinians hauling away bodies and scores of injured in a hospital after the attack, which took place at a sensitive moment in mediated talks on a ceasefire that would involve releasing hostages held by Hamas and some of the Palestinians held in Israeli jails. At the Al-Aqsa Martyrs Hospital in Deir al-Balah, a Palestinian boy, Imad al-Maqadmeh, lay on the floor, his swollen face badly bruised and bleeding. He said he lost his father in the strike. What did we do? There are no armed people in the school. The ones there are children, playing. We play together... Why did they bomb us?" he said in the video obtained by Reuters.In images of the dead laid out at the hospital surrounded by wailing mourners, bodies were mostly wrapped in shrouds or carpets, making it impossible to determine their identities from the video. The US issued a joint statement with other countries calling on Israel and Hamas to compromise to finalise a deal after eight months of war in the Gaza Strip. Qatar's foreign ministry spokesperson Majed Al-Ansari said Hamas had not yet responded to the latest ceasefire proposal and was still studying it, adding that Qatar, Egypt and the US mediation efforts are still ongoing.Hamas sources said there was nothing new to respond to, adding the Israeli proposal was old and the group rejected it because it did not speak of an end to the war or a complete pullout from Gaza.Ismail Al-Thawabta, the director of the Hamas-run government media office, rejected Israel's assertion that the UN school in Nuseirat, in central Gaza, had hidden a Hamas command post."The occupation uses ... false fabricated stories to justify the brutal crime it conducted against dozens of displaced people," Thawabta told Reuters. Israel's military said its fighter jets had carried out a "precise strike", and circulated satellite photos highlighting two parts of a building where it said the fighters were based."We're very confident in the intelligence," military spokesperson Lt Col Peter Lerner said, accusing Hamas and Islamic Jihad fighters of deliberately using UN facilities as operational bases.

He said 20 to 30 fighters were located in the compound, and many of them had been killed. "I'm not aware of any civilian casualties and I'd be very, very cautious of accepting anything that Hamas puts out," he said.Later Israel's chief military spokesperson Daniel Hagari said the military had so far identified nine of 30 Hamas and Islamic Jihad fighters targeted in the pre-dawn strike. As people at the school cleared rubble from bloodstained classrooms, survivor Huda Abu Dhaher described waking up to the sound of rockets."People's remains were scattered inside the yard and outside. The gas canister exploded," she told Reuters. My nephew was martyred (killed), he lost his leg and arm, he was a 10-year-old."

Washington said it expected Israel to be fully transparent in making information about the strike public."As a general matter, and as we've said before, Israel has a right to go after Hamas. But we've also been clear that Israel must take every precaution possible and do more to protect civilians," a White House National Security Council spokesperson said.Late on Thursday, Hamas media said an Israeli airstrike on the house of the mayor of Al-Nuseirat camp in central Gaza Strip killed the mayor, Eyad Al-Mghari, and some members of his family.

Slow procurement, monsoon worry for farmers of Odisha's Bargarh

BARGARH: The slow pace of rabi paddy procurement due to elections has farmers of Bargarh worried. The farmers are concerned about arrival of monsoon as thousands of bags of paddy are lying unsold under open sky in market yards across the districtAs monsoon is expected to arrive in Odisha in a few days, farmers are apprehensive their produce will get damaged and with it their months of hard work and investment. For the ongoing rabi season, 85,304 farmers have registered to sell their paddy across 294 market yards and PACS besides 50 self-help groups. While the procurement began from May 10, till now around 71,78,045 bags of paddy have been lifted from different market yards. The farmers claim thousands of bags have already been dumped at the market yards but are lying unsold. On an average 5,000 bags of paddy are lying unsold at major market yards like the one at Attabira. As if this was not enough, agents of rice millers have started exploiting the farmers. Sensing panic among farmers who are ready with their harvest or have already dumped their produce, the agents are offering to purchase the paddy after deduction of 2-3 kg per quintal on the pretext of quality. They are also adding to the farmers' fears that rain may damage their produce.Farmer leader, Hara Bania said, "The situation is worse in some villages of Bargarh, Bijepur and Attabira blocks where farmers have dumped their paddy in the market yards but are unable enter their records. If the entry of paddy brought to the market yards is made, then the farmers will have to dispose.

Not a complete order, says 3rd judge, sends YouTuber case to regular bench

CHENNAI: Holding that the split verdict of the vacation bench on the legality of the detention of YouTuber Savukku Shankar under the Goondas Act was not 'a complete order', the third judge, Justice G

Jayachandran, reverted the matter to the regular division bench of Madras High Court hearing habeas corpus petitions (HCPs) on Thursday.Justice G Jayachandran recommended the Acting CJ give necessary instructions to the Registry to refer the matter to the division bench to decide on the point of difference--whether the detaining authority be given time for filing a counteraffidavit before passing orders on the case or not. HCP was filed by the YouTuber's mother seeking to quash the detention under the Goondas Act.The presiding judge of the vacation bench Justice GR Swaminathan had denied the opportunity to the Greater Chennai Police to file a counter-affidavit and quashed the detention on procedural lapses while the dissenting judge, Justice PB Balaji, held that the police must be granted time to file the counter-affidavit.Subsequently, the matter was referred to Justice Jayachandran who had directed the police to file the counter-affidavit during the earlier hearing. However, when the matter came up for hearing on Thursday, Additional Advocate General (AAG) J Ravindran, representing the Greater Chennai Police, submitted that since Justice Jayachandran has directed the respondent to file the counter-affidavit, he is agreeing with the view taken by the dissenting judge. As the majority view is that the respondent shall be granted time for filing the counter-affidavit, the HCP must be heard by the regular division bench as per the relevant rules of the High Court.Disagreeing with this contention, Justice Jayachandran directed the police to file the counter-affidavit by 2.15 pm on Thursday, which they did.

After going through the counter-affidavit, he said that the police should have been given the opportunity to be heard before passing the orders. He added that while Justice Swaminathan quashed the detention order on the merits of the HCP, the dissenting judge, Justice Balaji, did not comment anything on the merits, except commenting that the police should be given more time to respond. Hence, the order of this nature is not a complete one, he added.The judge also said that it must be ensured that the order passed by the bench does not suffer from any infraction of constitutional rights and that an opportunity is given to the police to justify its action.

'Extraneous factors'

Regarding the references made by Justice Swaminathan that two persons tried to influence him on the matter, Justice Jayachandran observed that if he was disturbed by extraneous factors, he should have recused himself.Meanwhile, the Greater Chennai Police Commissioner Sandeep Rai Rathore, in the counter-affidavit, stated that the videos posted by Shankar on the Kilambakkam bus terminus issue instigated the public to indulge in agitation. He said the Goondas Act was invoked against him after making an independent assessment of the case against him and coming to subjective satisfaction.

Karnataka enforces stringent fire safety measures in hospitals

BENGALURU: In the wake of the recent tragedy wherein seven newborns died when fire tore through a hospital in New Delhi, the state health department has mandated enforcing stringent fire safety measures in private medical institutions. The Delhi incident highlighted the critical need for adhering to the National Building Code of India-2010 (NBC), which classifies hospitals, nursing homes and clinics under category 'C' of institutional buildings. The recent fire outbreak revealed significant lapses, including absence of emergency or fire exit systems and an expired No Objection Certificate (NOC), resulting in the tragic loss of newborn lives. In accordance with the NBC, buildings over 21 metres in height must obtain a fire safety NOC from the fire department, while those under 21 metres must submit a self-declaration of compliance with fire safety measures. In a circular on June 4, the state health department directed private medical institutions to take immediate action. Key measures include conducting regular fire risk assessment drills to identify vulnerable areas, implementing fire prevention measures such as proper storage of flammable materials and regular maintenance of electrical circuits and training staff on fire safety protocols, evacuation procedures and use of fire-fighting equipment. Installation and maintenance of fire detection and suppression systems, including smoke alarms, fire extinguishers and sprinklers, have been mandated. The department also stressed on chalking an emergency response plan with standard operating procedures (SOPs) for evacuating patients, staff and visitors in the event of a fire along with regular mock emergency drills. The district health and family welfare officers have been instructed to ensure that private medical institutions with inpatient facilities adhere to all fire safety mesures mentioned in the circular. Authorised officers of the Karnataka Private Medical Establishments (KPME) in each district must verify the validity of the NOCs and institutions with expired certificates must renew them promptly. Any non-compliance should be reported to the fire department and the Commissionerate of Health and Family Welfare, the circular stated. To maintain rigorous fire safety protocols and ensure well-being of visitors and patients, district-level committees, chaired by health and family welfare officers, should be established

Over 20 old trees axed in Madurai for road works, activists decry shoddy planning

MADURAI: Days after activists sought for conservation of decades-old trees in Madurai city in view of the ebbing green cover, the state highways department has axed over 20 old trees near the Melamadai - Gomathipuram area. Although the forest department has taken up efforts to plant more saplings, irate activists blame shoddy planning by the departments concerned.

As part of road expansion works, the state highways department earlier felled decades-old trees, including a 50-year-old neem tree, near Tallakulam. Now, over 20 elder trees have been chopped on the stretch from Melamadai to Gomathipuram, near the Vandiyur tank, due to road expansion and bridge works.

the departments concerned planning the projects in a way that does not affect the environment? More than 20 trees have been axed on this stretch. This is disappointing. All these trees are native species, which have protected the environment and the waterbody nearby. In the future, the department must execute plans without impacting the environment," said V Srinivasan, of Melamadai area in Madurai. Citing rules in place for felling of trees, forest department officials stated that new saplings will be planted across the district to compensate for the loss of green cover. Although the option of transplanting trees remains, availability of suitable land for translocation, the cost, and the survival rate come under question. Officials, however, have assured that the department is trying to improve the green cover in the district through various schemes."Can Conservation efforts taken up by environmentalists the hundreds of saplings produce the amount of and others have failed to make a dent."Why aren't oxygen that was produced by the trees? The answer is no. Trees have been felled over time to make space for development. The district administration should be mindful of not initiating development works at the cost of the environment." Said Bharathi, a environmentalist from Madurai.

Students applying for BMTC passes face glitch, corporation says issue resolved

BENGALURU: Male students, who have applied for the BMTC bus pass for academic year 2024-25, are facing issues. Some students complain that they have not been getting the OTP to upload the application after getting approval from their respective institutions. Only male students are asked to apply for the student passes, as the female students, who are residents of the state, can travel free under the Shakti scheme."The bus pass issued for 2023-24 expired on May 31. Last year, we were allowed to travel by producing the admission receipt till the time we got the bus pass. However, this year, they have not given that option and we have to get the bus pass or buy tickets," said a college studentHe said he filled out the application and after getting approval from the college administration, he tried to upload it online, but even after multiple attempts, he was unable to do it. "To complete the process, we have to provide an OTP, but we are not getting it. I tried multiple times from my side online and also visited a BangaloreOne centre. I was told that the OTP is not sent, as there is an issue with the BMTC server," he added. He mentioned that students have to pay for their everyday travel as a result of the problems in applying for the bus pass. "I stay in Yeshwantpur and have to travel to Yelahanka, where my college is located. I have to spend nearly Rs 50 every day on bus tickets," he lamented. When TNIE contacted a senior BMTC official, she said, "Yes, there was a technical glitch that was

Panel to tackle invasive mussels in Pulicat, Ennore

is likely to form an expert committee to zero-in on best scientific ways to tackle the invasion of 'Kaaka aazhi' or 'Chasu mussels', an alien species that is widely spreading inside the ecologically sensitive Pulicat bird sanctuary and Ennore Creek.

TNIE found that the invasive species has reached an alarming level, extending up to several kilometres in these areas. If left unchecked, this will soon turn into an ecological disaster that will deplete native life and have ramifications on thousands of migratory birds that visit the region, especially Pulicat. Fishers have already begun complaining of reduction in prawn, crab and fish life, besides wiping out of the locally prevalent and They alleged that the ongoing commercially valuable yellow clams (manja matti) and green mussels (pachai aazhi).

The meeting was facilitated by G Sundarrajanfrom Poovulagin Nanbargal.The delegation, in its representation, said 'Kaaka azhi' has pushed the fishermen to the verge of losing their livelihood. In 2022, Tamil Nadu State Wetland Authority visited and initiated a micro-plan for removal of the alien mussels at Karukkumaram-Kandachedi Paadu in consultation with fishers in Ennore followed by measures like bathymetry study, mortality test and prepared a detailed project report. According to sources, the state is keen to develop an urban air mobility ecosystem or air taxis which will enable drone and short haul air transport operators to safely provide urban air transport in the greater Chennai Metropolitan Area. These 'flying taxis' will take off vertically and land without the aid of a runway.Sources said development of urban air mobility (UAM) system in Chennai would be executed in a phased manner. It would start with the development of a roadmap for a fully functional UAM system enabling creation of vertiports, a designated area for vertical takeoff and landing without runway. It would also include a unified traffic management supported by communication, navigation and surveillance systems, capacity management, geo- fencing, a key capability for low-altitude unmanned aircraft system traffic mnagement and zone management.A Chennai Unified

Kashmiris affirm faith in democratic polity

THE union territories of J&K and Ladakh, remains of the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir, went to the polls in five phases. According to reports, Kashmir, home to the bulk of the UT's population but the smallest in size, recorded a voter turnout that was the highest since 1996. Srinagar saw 38.49 per cent polling, Baramulla 59.1 per cent and Anantnag — its Kashmiri predominance sought to be blunted by the addition of Jammu division's Poonch-Rajouri districts — 54.84 per cent.The results demonstrate a sharp communal divide between the Muslim-majority Kashmir and Ladakh and Hindu-majority Jammu, a polarisation accentuated by the religious appeal made to voters by contenders on both sides of the Pir Panjal. The Hindutva agenda of the BJP, which Panjal. The Hindutva agenda of the BJP, which took both seats in Jammu — constituencies crafted by the Delimitation Commission to buttress their religious identity — was matched by the distinct religious grounding of each of the candidates in the Valley, although the latter was free from sectarianism. In fact, Aga Syed Ruhullah Mehdi, the triumphant National Conference (NC) candidate from Srinagar who belongs to the first family of the Shia Muslim community in Kashmir, broke with precedent by openly apologising on behalf of his community for having failed to prevent the exodus of Kashmiri Pandits from the Valley when J&K was, like now, under the administration of the was, like now, under the administration of the Union Government in 1990-96.Is this then the beginning of a new era in the troubled region? It is well to remember that this was the first election in Jammu and Kashmir since the Modi government's revocation of the limited political autonomy that the state had enjoyed under the Constitution with the abrogation of Article 370 in 2019. The turnout in the elections in the Valley and Ladakh is indicative of the determination of Kashmiris and Ladakhis to oust the BJP government at the Centre. Although the trends from the beginning favoured former NC leader Mohammed Haneefa, who won the Ladakh seat as an independent, this is not necessarily a resurgence of the party but a bid to rally behind it to defeat the ruling party at the Centre. The fact that the NC's star candidate, former CM Omar Abdullah, was unseated simply affirms this as the elected candidate, Engineer Rashid (who got nearly 46 per cent of the vote against Abdullah's 26 per cent) has himself been an advocate of Azadi, for which he has been in the Tihar Jail for the past five years under UAPA. His campaign got going at the last moment, led by his two sons.

What we are witness to specifically is a consolidation of the votes against the BJP, the party responsible for the abrogation. It might be recalled that earlier, both leading parties rooted in Kashmir — the NC and the PDP — had been willing to work with the BJP. The last elected government was a BJP-PDP combine. As borne out by the election campaigns of each, even the BJP's supposed allies like Sajjad Lone's People's Conference have been obliged to distance themselves from that party before making any appeal for support to the public. The BJP did not field any candidate from any seat in Kashmir. Home Minister Amit Shah was quoted as saying that it would take time for the lotus to bloom in Kashmir. But the election results show that unless the party reinvents itself for the Kashmiris and Ladakhis, this is unlikely. Of all Indian leaders whom J&K has seen as PM, Atal Bihari Vajpayee is readily the most loved.

Let alone support for the BJP, then, even association with that party has no takers in Srinagar. I was in the Valley in the first week of May, staying in homes of friends in Srinagar, including downtown, and in Sopore. Engineer Rashid's emergence as a possible challenger to Abdullah was yet to crystallise. Hostility to the BJP was palpable and universal.Candidates had more to say against the BJP on the campaign trail than against each other. Different segments of Kashmir's political firmament were united against the party ruling in New Delhi. The message that the Kashmiris have given is loud and clear. Although violence has indeed abated in the UT — and I venture to continue to hold this view despite the violent incidents that rocked Kulgam and Poonch during the election process — the reasons for this are not to be found in any sense of satisfaction among the people with the extant administration, but instead an increased alienation

Congress back on track in Punjab as AAP faces discontent

The Congress was the biggest gainer, winning seven seats, though the odds were against it as most of its senior leaders had defected to the BJP and other parties.

THE outcome of the 2024 Lok Sabha election in Punjab has raised many questions about the ruling Aam Aadmi Party (AAP). The party won just three seats out of 13, falling well short of the clean sweep predicted by Chief Minister Bhagwant Mann. The verdict has rocked AAP just two years after it registered a landslide victory in the Assembly elections, winning 92 seats in the 117-member House.AAP's vote share fell drastically to 26.02 per cent from 42 per cent in 2022. This indicates a surge in frustration and disappointment of the masses with the ruling party and Mann's leadership. The party largely failed to address key issues such as the agrarian unrest, drug trade, law and order, and corruption. Endemic factionalism, organisational weaknesses, dominance of the Delhi-based top brass and ideological bankruptcy have seemingly put AAP on a perilous path in a short period of time. The victory of two independent radical candidates is a manifestation of these unresolved issues.

This benefited the Congress, which finished on top with seven LS seats, thus recovering from the rout it had suffered in the 2022 Assembly polls. The Congress' vote share (26.3 per cent) was, however, only slightly better than that of AAP this time. The verdict of the Punjab electorate in favour of the Congress was against the broad national trend. This is not a new phenomenon as the party had won eight seats in the 2019 elections amid a Modi wave in the country. In the just-concluded elections, where there was no noticeable wave, Punjab's 'exceptionalism' was very much on display. This was the only state in north India where the BJP drew a blank, even though Hindus account for around 40 per cent of the border state's population. During his recent rallies in Punjab, the Prime Minister focused on Sikh issues, such as the 1984 riots and the Kartarpur corridor. However, this narrative did not receive much attention in the state. The party recorded a vote share of 18.56 per cent; five of its 13 candidates lost their deposits. The strong opposition to BJP candidates and other leaders by farmers' organisations during campaigning sealed the party's fate. Incidentally, the BJP had won two seats out of the three it contested in the 2019 parliamentary polls in the state.A significant development in the 2024 election was the rejection of the BJP's agenda by the state's voters. The party tried to connect with Dalits and urban Hindus, but failed to a great extent. The BJP, which had been a junior ally of the Shiromani Akali Dal (SAD) for long, went solo this time after talks with the one-time partner over seatsharing proved inconclusive.

In recent years, the BJP has neither succeeded in broadening its traditional urban upper-caste voter base nor has been able to raise a tall state-level leader. Its strategy has been to win over Congress leaders. It does not qualify as a winnable party on its own despite having had a long-term presence in the state right from the days of its precursor, the Bharatiya Jana Sangh.

As for the SAD, it suffered yet another electoral rout, winning only one Lok Sabha seat — its traditional bastion, Bathinda. The party had pulled out of the BJP-led NDA in 2021 over the three controversial 'pro-corporate' agriculture laws after having drawn the farmers' wrath by initially supporting the legislation.

The leadership crisis in the party and its 10-year 'misrule' in the state (2007-17) are among the factors responsible for the loss of its core support in the state. The party also significantly lost the support of its key vote bank, the Jat Sikh community. There is a question mark over the leadership of Sukhbir Badal, especially after the demise of his father, former CM Parkash Singh Badal.

was an election where the same pressing issues farmers' distress, drug menace, lack of jobs, large-scale migration of the youth to Western countries, industries shifting to neighbouring states, corruption, depleting water table, lack of development, and law and order were raised by Opposition parties, but they hardly received any positive response from the state and Central governments. The election campaign was lacklustre, going by the generally low participation at poll meetings and rallies. The overall apathy was also reflected in the lower turnout, which was surprising as Punjab is known for recording a consistently higher turnout than the national average, whether it is the Lok Sabha or Assembly elections. As compared to the national average, Punjab's turnout was about three percentage points lower this time. There was 62.8 per cent polling this time, as against 65.77 per cent in 2019 and 70.6 per cent in 2014. The field was unusually wide open — in the fray were SAD, BJP, Congress, AAP and the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP). The entry and huge victory of two radical candidates — Amritpal Singh and Sarabjeet Singh Khalsa from Khadoor Sahib and Faridkot, respectively, — not only made these elections very interesting but also posed a tough challenge to mainstream political parties. Their wins will have far-reaching consequences for Punjab.

Though the BSP put up its candidates from all parliamentary seats in Punjab, it failed to make its presence felt despite the fact that Dalits account for onethird of the state's population.

At the end of the day, the Congress was the biggest gainer, winning seven seats, though the odds were against it as most of its senior leaders had defected to the BJP and other parties. Voters have sent out the message that they are banking on the Congress to raise the state's issues in the Lok Sabha and work towards resolving them on priority.

2014 and bagged 62 five years later. The victories in the Assembly elections of 2017 and 2022 were also impressive. With CM Yogi Adityanath firmly at the helm, the party looked set to do an encore in the 2024 elections, but SP chief Akhilesh Yadav and the Gandhi siblings had other ideas.

A BJP supporter candidly admitted that the grandeur of the Ram Mandir might have impressed outsiders, but residents of the town were unhappy over the inconvenience they were subjected to. Sustaining growth must be a priority of new govt

The long-term nature of govt jobs is the reason they are considered the goal of millions in this country.

THE management of the economy is bound to be at the top of the new government's agenda. 'It's the economy, stupid' is a catchline made famous by Bill Clinton's 1992 election campaign, and it is still relevant. The Indian economy may be in relatively good shape, with GDP growth outpacing all others globally, but this is still a developing country with sizable segments in the poor and underprivileged categories. Pulling them out of poverty and reducing the inequality that has virtually created two Indias on a single subcontinent will have to be the focus of the new set of policymakers. The concept of a viksit or developed Bharat is unexceptionable, but the elements of society that are lagging behind will have to catch up before the country can truly reach the status of a developed nation.

To reduce the inequalities that exist between the burgeoning urban middle class and the less privileged masses in rural areas, the biggest task will be to move jobs away from agriculture and towards the more vibrant industrial and services sectors. Right now, 45 per cent of jobs are dependent on agriculture, a sector that comprises only 15 per cent of the GDP. The NDA (2019-24) government had taken an initiative on this front, infusing massive public capital expenditure into infrastructure development over the past few years. But this laudable policy measure has not created as many jobs as needed, given the enormity of the country's working-age population. There are differing estimates of actual unemployment in the country. The latest Periodic Labour Force Survey shows that the unemployment rate was 3.1 per cent in 2023, the lowest in three years. On the other hand, a private sector think tank, Centre for Monitoring Indian Economy, puts the unemployment rate for 2023-24 at 8 per cent. Despite the differing data, the underlying conclusion is that more jobs need to be created rapidly. The drive to set up the much-needed infrastructure through a big capex thrust now needs to be accompanied by much more investment from the private sector, both from domestic and foreign sources. This will have to be aided by improving the ease of doing business. Though the current regime made some headway in this direction, bureaucracy and procedural complexities still abound.Officials involved in this exercise at the Central level say the problem is with the states. To some extent, this is true. It can be seen from the fact that some states, especially in southern India, attract far more foreign direct investment than others. For instance, tech giant Apple is clearly only interested in setting up projects in Tamil Nadu, Karnataka and Andhra Pradesh. Gujarat is another state that has for long attracted investors and is now catching the attention of semi-conductor firms considering massive investments in this high-tech area.

The uneven scenario in individual states is likely to presage a pivot in the reform process from the Central to the state level. The brief economic statement that replaced the annual survey in this year's Interim Budget talks of the states' role in making future economic reforms more 'purposeful and fruitful'. It goes on to highlight the need for improving governance at the district, block and village levels, making them both citizen- and businessfriendly.One must not forget that the Budget provided the first ever interest-free loan of Rs 75,000 crore for states to frame growth- and development-oriented reforms. This is clearly a bid to lure less investmentoriented states to carry out business-friendly reforms.

But it is not enough to attract investments. There is a need to ensure that there is skilled labour to use the job opportunities thrown up by new manufacturing projects. Providing an education that makes the much-talkedabout youth demographic more employable is the need of the hour. This must start at the school level and continue through vocational institutions that impart relevant technical skills. An economy known for its expertise in software and computers should be able to provide a high-quality education in ancillary areas. Excellence in learning must go beyond the renowned engineering and science institutions.

In evolving new education policies, it would be useful to involve the industry closely. This could help improve the employability of those seeking to enter the manufacturing sector. At the same time, the private sector needs to reduce the share of contract jobs so that there is greater security of employment. The long-term nature of government jobs is the reason they are considered the goal of millions in this country. It has created the myth that only government jobs are worthwhile. Some political parties have unwisely promoted this theme during election campaigns by promising government jobs as sops for voters.

On the contrary, entrepreneurship should be given greater encouragement, for this truly yields sizable returns, especially in high-tech areas. Startups have been adopted enthusiastically by the youth in this country. In fact, India now nurtures one of the biggest global ecosystems for unicorns and decacorns. Even micro and tiny enterprises are being given support through Internet marketing platforms. This is the future, and employment opportunities need to be viewed through a different prism now rather than as the 'pukki naukri' (secure jobs) of old. The long-term agenda for any new government will thus have to be holistic, as GDP growth already reached an encouraging 8.2 per cent in 2023-24. Sustaining this growth will mean raising private investment currently lagging behind public capex. Foreign direct investment flows will also need a boost, as the latest data shows a decline in the last fiscal. This could reflect the challenges of external headwinds, especially geopolitical tensions. Raising growth in rural areas will also need to be kept in focus, though the forecast of a normal monsoon this year means agricultural output is set to be higher than the 1.4 per cent of last year. Rural consumption is already picking up and could soon reach a broad-based recovery. The goal of more equitable growth is thus achievable but will need a great deal of hard work.

After Congress' Stock Market Charge, BJP's "5th Largest Economy" Rebuttal

New Delhi: The BJP on Thursday hit back at Congress leader Rahul Gandhi who had alleged a connection between "BJP, exit pollsters and dubious foreign investors". It also accused the Congress leader of "conspiring to mislead market investors".

- Addressing a press conference, Union Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal said that the Congress leader "has still not overcome the opposition's defeat" in the Lok Sabha elections. Several opposition parties had come together to form the INDIA bloc to take on the BJP-led NDA in the Lok Sabha polls.Rahul Gandhi had alleged that there was a loss of lakhs of crores to retail investors due to "fake exit polls" and demanded a Joint Parliamentary Committee probe into the "biggest stock market scam."
- Mr Goyal said in the past 10 years of PM Modi's government, the market capitalization of Indian stocks crossed $5 trillion."Rahul Gandhi has still not overcome the loss in the Lok Sabha Elections. Now, he is conspiring to mislead the market investors. Today, India has become the fifth-largest economy," he said. The Union minister alleged that Mr Gandhi wants to instil "fear in the minds of both the domestic and global investors, so that they do not invest"."We all know equity markets react to various estimates and predictions during any elections, or for that matter any forecasts by banks and institutions. Ups and downs are normal even during a non-event," he said. In May this year, market caps of both BSE and NSE-listed companies touched $5 trillion. Market capitalisation or market cap is the total value of a company's stock, derived at by multiplying the stock price by the number of its outstanding shares.Indian stocks market entered the league of top five stock markets globally, Mr Goyal said, adding that m-cap of PSU companies has risen four-fold over the past years.Indian The size of the mutual fund industry was only investors, particularly the retail investors, have benefitted from the rise in stock indices over the years, he said."Retail investors are not just bystanders today, but are participating in it," he said.FPI holdings in India were 21 per cent during UPA days and it has dipped to now 16 per cent, he said. At the same time, Indians investing in stock markets have gone up.

"India is considered a well-regulated market, and SEBI has received several appreciations worldwide," Mr Goyal added.He said India was referred to as "among fragile 5" during the rule of the Congress-led United Progressive Alliance and that the country was now the fifth biggest economy. The term Fragile 5 was coined by a Morgan Stanley analyst in 2013, which referred to a set of five emerging countries, including India, whose economy was not doing well back then. The other four countries were Brazil, Indonesia, South Africa, and Turkey.

? 10 lakh crore in 2014, today it has increased more than 5 times to ? 56 lakh crore. Through mutual funds, Indian investors especially small investors are taking advantage of this growing market today and these small retail investors have ensured that India's ownership today has instantly become more than the ownership of institutional investors," Mr Goyal said.

"In April and May, when the market was rising, foreigners sold in the market and Indian investors took advantage of it and bought it. The benefit of this rise in the last two months has been received by Indian investors," he said, referring to the latest outflows by foreign investors. In April and May, FPIs were net sellers in Indian stock markets, data showed."When the results came on June 4, when the market fell, foreign investors sold at a low price and Indian investors bought it with the belief that the Modi government was coming and we would take advantage of it. So foreigners bought at a high price and sold at a low price. Indian investors sold at a high price and bought at a low price. So in a way, Indian investors earned even in this period. No one suffered a loss," Mr Goyal said, adding that the retail investors benefited during the period.In his remarks, Mr Gandhi demanded a Joint Parliamentary Committee (JPC) probe, terming it the "biggest stock market scam." Addressing a press conference, the Congress leader said that after 'fake' exit polls, stock markets rose, and then crashed on June 4.

retained the constituency, defeating Sunetra Pawar. Addressing a press conference after the meeting of his party MLAs, Pawar said that all party MLAs were present at the meeting and rejected speculation that some were planning to defect to the faction led by Sharad Pawar. We did not

I take the entire responsibility for the result. All MLAs are with us," he said.Speaking about Baramati, where Supriya Sule defeated Sunetra Pawar by a margin of over one lakh votes, the Deputy Chief Minister said, "I am very Leave other constituencies, but I did not expect this in Baramati."Asked about whether he would once again join hands with NCP founder Sharad Pawar, he tersely said he accepted responsibility for the poll debacle, adding "there is no need to bring family matters in public".Asserting there would be detailed introspection of the party's poll performance, Ajit Pawar said some of the reasons included Muslims moving away from the ruling alliance, the Opposition's allegations of change in the Constitution, which alienated the Dalits and backward classes, as well as the Maratha quota protest.

4. Create areas where people can connect with others without distractions or interference.

4. Cultivating interactive furniture settings

Research shows that providing spaces that support collaborative and heads-down activities increases engagement and productivity. Giving workers choice and control over where they work gives people a sense of ownership and allows them to work in ways that feel authentic and natural to them.

Design Considerations:

1. Collaborative spaces, with or without walls, and single-use focus rooms give users a variety of spaces to choose from and be comfortable with.

2. Place sofas and soft benches for lounge posture and stools for.

5. Cultivating vitality in the workplace

How we experience a place affects our actions. Investments in the workplace can completely change the attitude and behavior of employees, creating a new spatial vibe that boosts their motivation and performance within a relatively short time.

Design Considerations:

1. Design areas that give people choices for controlling the level of sensory stimulation around them.

2. Provide easily adjustable furniture to fit a range of sizes, needs and preferences and to promote movement throughout the day.

3. Include cafes with healthy food choices ccording to a study, an office worker spends 5 years sitting at a desk. Imagine! If you spend so much time sitting at your workstations, do you not deserve a spacious, comfortable and a desk that boosts our productivity? But this is definitely not what most of the workplaces provide. It is vital that the workplace is designed to nurture the physical, cognitive and emotional needs of the employees. However, only the right kinds of spaces can make this happen and thus we got in touch with Praveen Rawal, Managing Director, Steelcase (design consultant to the offices of Google, IBM, Deloitte, Accenture, TATASky and many more) to understand some ways to build a progressive and adaptable workplace which will boost employee productivity and engagement at a workplace.

1. Optimism: Fostering creativity and innovation

Optimistic employees tend to be more productive in today's economy. They influence a wide range of behaviours such as seeing the big picture, exploring ideas, being open to others, taking more risks, facing difficult tasks and being open to change. 6 Easy tips to turn your balcony into an inviting sit-out

Space is at a premium in urban homes so every square inch matters. If you're lucky to have a balcony, you could convert it into a sit-out to make up for the garden you've always wanted. Here's how.

1. You can plan your sit-out when your apartment is getting constructed by getting special tiles laid, getting the balcony floor water proof, getting electrical points fixed and if you're receiving the harsh light of the sun, perhaps even an awning. If not, don't worry. It's never too late to start.

2. Seating: depending on the size of your balcony, choose furniture - two chairs and a table or a bench. Cane or seasoned wood is best. If you have the luxury of space, consider a day bed or even a swing. 3. Plants: Potted plants can convert even the most boring balcony into an inviting place. You can go with a mix of wall-mounted pots, balcony planters and pots for your foliage. Keep a mix seasonal flowers and perennials.

4. Accessories: Over time you can add accessories to your balcony. Wind chimes, hanging plants, fairy lights, garden accessories, wall brackets etc to give the space character.

5. Weather proof: You can choose to weather proof your balcony by closing it with transparent glass shutters, so you enjoy the rains while you stay dry and warm on the balcony.

6. Privacy: If you want privacy but don't want to feel walled in, fabricate a mesh and let climbers grow on it. It can shield you from your nosey neighbour and make a pretty neat addition to your balcony.

Good news for FASTag, NCMC users! Now recharge using recurring payments mechanism via e-mandate check RBI's new step

- NEW DELHI. Good news for FASTag, NCMC users! RBI governor Shaktikanta Das on Friday announced that users of FASTag and National Common Mobility Card will now be able to add balance to their cards using the recurring payments mechanism through e-mandate framework."The adoption of e-mandates for recurring payment transactions has been increasing. It is now proposed to include payments such as replenishment of balances in FASTag, National Common Mobility Card, that is NCMC, etc, which are recurring in nature, but without any fixed periodicity in the e-mandate framework,"he said.
- "This will enable customers to automatically replenish the balances in FASTag, NCMC, etc. Iif the balance goes below the threshold limit set by them. This will enhance convenience in making travel and mobility related payments," he added.
- Shaktikanta Das also said, "The Reserve Bank has taken a number of measures over the years to deepen digital payments, while ensuring that safety and security. These measures have boosted consumer confidence. Growing incidences of digital frauds, however, highlight the need for a system wide approach to prevent and mitigate such frauds. It is therefore proposed to establish a digital payments intelligence platform for network level intelligence and real time data sharing across the digital payments ecosystem. To take this initiative forward, the Reserve Bank has constituted a committee to examine various aspects of setting up this platform.

MUMBAI. Hungary-based Wizz Air plans to start services connecting Indian and European cities, and the average one-way fares could be 200 euros (around Rs 18,000) for a flight, according to a top airline executive. The ultra low-cost carrier, which has been flying for more than 20 years, is in discussions with the government and regulators on starting operations to India.

Wizz Air CEO Jozsef Varadi on Thursday said that one of the biggest issues faced by the Indian diaspora in Europe is that flying to India is expensive and that needs to change. The airline will start receiving A321 XLR planes from early next year and that will make it possible to fly to India which is an amazing market. XLRs can operate non-stop for eight to eight-and-ahalf hours, he said. We are in discussions with the governments and the regulators on both sides of the equations in Europe and India," Varadi told PTI. According to him, the average one-way fare could be around 200 euros. The lowest fare could be sub-100 euros, he added.

Festive offer

At current exchange rates, 200 euros amounts to little over Rs 18,000. As per the airline's website, a passenger can carry cabin baggage of up to 10 kg free of cost. There will be charges for additional baggage. Subject to regulatory approvals, the airline expects to start operating to India in the next financial year.

India will need $190-$215 bn investment for renewable energy capacity target

Renewable energy and transmission projects will be the driving force behind power sector investments," remarked Moody's.

NEW DELHI. Domestic power sector is poised to experience substantial investment, primarily propelled by renewable energy and electricity transmission projects, stated Moody's Ratings on Tuesday.The report said the sector will need $190 billion to $215 billion investment for achieving renewable energy capacity target by 2030. India aims to achieve 500 GW of renewable energy capacity by 2030, with an annual capacity addition of nearly 44 GW. "Renewable energy and transmission projects will be the driving force behind power sector investments," remarked Moody's.Despite the emphasis on renewables, coal will continue to play a significant role in meeting baseload power requirements, as per the report. Moody's forecasts that India will add between 40 GW and 50 GW of coal-based capacity over the next five to six years to cater to an anticipated annual power demand growth of

5%–6%. "Even with these additions, the utilization rate for coal-based capacity is expected to remain high based capacity is expected to remain high at approximately 65%-70%," Moody's o b s e r v e d . H o w e v e r , th e substantial investments in renewables could lead to increased financial leverage for companies in this sector.

Moody's emphasized that robust policy support has enabled India to raise the share of renewable energy in its power capacity mix to around 43 percent in the fiscal year 2023-2024. The report underscores that sustained policy backing will facilitate India's significant strides towards its 2030 transition targets and its 2070 net-zero targets. The report also noted that strong policy support has helped India increase the share of renewable energy in its power capacity mix to around 43 percent in fiscal 2023-2024. "The Central Electricity Regulatory C ommission's tariff regulations for 2024-2029 have provided clarity for regulated power companies regarding their returns and cost pass-through mechanisms. This regulatory consistency helps power companies transition toward cleaner energy while maintaining profitability," the report said.

RBI raises GDP forecast, Sensex zooms 600 points

New Delhi Benchmark stock market indices saw a jump after the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) kept the lending rates unchanged at 6.5% for an eighth straight time.

The S&P BSE Sensex jumped over 600 points after the announcement, while NSE Nifty50 also jumped over 150

The Sensex gained 0.64%, reaching 75,624 points, while the Nifty rose by 0.67% to reach 22,968.9 points.RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das has announced an increase in the projected real GDP growth for the financial year 2024-25, setting it at 7.2%, up from the previous estimate of 7%.Anil Rego, Founder and Fund Manager at Right Horizons said that the Monetary Policy Committee has maintained the status quo on the repo rate as inflation moderates in a resilient growing company halonging inflation growing economy balancing inflation and growth."Going forward with the uncertainty around election outcomes behind us the focus would be on budget. The domestic strengths and policy focus has put the economy on a healthy growth trajectory and the rate cuts expected in later half of FY25 is likely to aid the equity markets," said Rego.India's annual consumer price inflation fell slightly to 4.83% in April from 4.85% in March 2024, marking an 11-month low. During the same period, the Wholesale Price Index (WPI) saw a year-on-year increase of 1.26%. The inflation rate remains within the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) target range of 2-6%. The country's Gross Domestic Product (GDP) experienced strong growth in the fiscal year 2024, rising by 8.2%, which surpassed expectations. The GDP growth for the last quarter was recorded at 7.8%, largely driven by significant expansion in the manufacturing sector."The policy tone was confident on domestic dynamics, with upgrade in FY25 growth and but no change in inflation trends despite near-term food-led risks. While the RBI took recognition of fluidity of global narratives, the governor insisted that their policy reaction function is driven primarily by domestic dynamics," said Madhavi Arora, Lead Economist, Emkay Global, Mumbai."However, we note that swift policy turns/pivots in the last two years have been purely influenced by global factors. This suggests that when needed, the aim of financial stability may even precede inflation management," Arora added.The Reserve Bank of India (RBI)

Reserve Bank of India (RBI) plans to continue its focus on withdrawing its accommodative policy. Additionally, a normal south-west monsoon is anticipated, which is expected to enhance kharif crop production and improve water storage levels in reservoirs. The RBI keeps the inflation forecast for FY25 steady at 4.5%. Shaktikanta Das affirmed the RBI's dedication to restoring inflation to the target of

Amid market crash & recovery, FPIs pull out Rs 18,109 crore so far in June

Mumbai After investing Rs 6,850 crore on June 3 - after the exit poll results were announced – foreign portfolio investors (FPIs) were big sellers in the stock market in the next four days amid the fall and rise in stocks in the wake of the unexpected poll outcome.Foreign investors have taken out Rs 18,109 crore from the cash market (excluding IPO investments) in the month of June so far, according to exchange data. On the other hand, domestic institutional investors (DIIs) have net purchased Rs 6,864 crore of equities so far in June.Net FPI outflows were at record high of Rs 12,436 crore on June 4, the day Lok Sabha election results were announced and the Sensex crashed by 6 per cent.On June 5, while the Sensex recovered by 3.2 per cent per cent, FPIs sold 5,656 crore and turned sellers again on June 6 with Rs 6,867 crore of outflows.

In the recent past, FPIs have pulled out money from India because of the expensive valuation and were investing in China and also due to election related uncertainties, analysts said. As the election results are out and with the formation of a new government under the National Democratic Alliance (NDA) coalition, analysts expect FPIs to again start investing in

Unchanged repo rate to keep housing demand high

NEW DELHI. The Reserve Bank of India's decision to keep the repo rate unchanged has largely been welcomed by the real estate industry as they believe it provides stability in home loan interest rates at a time when buyers' and developers' confidence in the market is strong. However, the industry anticipates a rate cut shortly as India's consumer inflation is steadily approaching the RBI mark of 4%. With the mandate of a stable government now manifest in an unchanged monetary policy, the housing sector's overall growth momentum will continue," said Anuj Puri, Chairman - ANAROĆK Group Puri explained that mid-range and premium property segments together account for more than 55% of the current supply. Together, they recorded approx. 76,555 units sold in Q1 2024 nearly 60% of the total sales. He said that the buyers of this segment are sensitive to volatile interest rates, and upward hikes would cause many of them to defer home purchases. This policy continuity supports sustained demand in these two segments. The affordable housing sector is the most cost-sensitive. While PMAY Urban has sanctioned 118.64 lakh homes against a demand of 112.24 lakh homes, affordable housing (homes priced under Rs 40 lakhs) sales in Q1 2024 recorded 26,545 units - a mere 20% of the total sales. "However, as we have seen, unchanged home loan rates alone are insufficient to induce new vibrancy in the affordable segment. It is hoped that the government will soon introduce further incentives to support it," added Puri. The Reserve Bank of India in its latest Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) has kept the repo rate unchanged at 6.5% for the eighth consecutive time. This is the first time the MPC met after the results of the general elections were declared. As the repo rate remains unchanged, all external benchmark lending rates that are linked to the reportate will not rise. This means that equated monthly instalments (EMIs) for consumers will not increase.Pradeep Aggarwal, Founder & Chairman, Signature Global (India) Ltd, said, "Economists predict that if inflation continues to decline, rate cuts of 25-50 basis points could be expected in the second half of the fiscal year. Such a reduction in interest rates could significantly boost the real estate sector, which is already benefiting from strong end-user demand. We anticipate this robust demand trend to remain healthy over the coming years, particularly in cities like Gurugram, which are experiencing substantial infrastructure development."Retail inflation came down to a fresh 11-month low of 4.83% and MD of PropEquity, said that with overall inflation falling within the RBI range, a policy rate cut may not be very far away.Real estate prices have gone up substantially and a future rate cut will give much higher purchasing power to the customer which is the need of the hour.

Sailing through FTAs expected to be tougher for the coalition government

- NEW DELHI. Implementation of free trade agreements (FTAs) with various countries that were on the cards could prove to be challenging for the coalition government, as per experts.
- They say the Centre may face potential disagreements from the allies and the strong Opposition may add another layer of difficulties in sailing through the FTAs. "Allies of the BJP may have disagreements over certain issues regarding the terms and conditions of the free trade agreements. Furthermore, strong Opposition may create hindrance in executing FTAs," said Arun Kumar, former professor of Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU). He is of the view that amid global slowdown, FTAs may not be very relevant and have not been as beneficial as expected. In addition, he said FTAs with ASEAN countries and Korea have not been advantageous for India with benefits being mostly onesided."These are complex agreements with long-term consequences. Modi's new government may take time to settle down before pushing through such complex international agreements," Kumar stated.
- India had a trade deficit with South Korea at $0.238 trillion. As per Delhi-based think-tank Global Trade Research Initiative (GTRI), India's merchandise trade deficit grew by 302.9% with ASEAN and 164.1% with South Korea. This comparison is based on data from pre-FTA period (2007-09) and 2020-22. India had entered trade pacts with these countries in 2010-11. Exports to these countries rose at a lower rate than imports."The government is reviewing the FTAs which have not yielded gains for the country. FTAs, which have already been signed, will remain intact and going forward only those trade pacts will be considered which will be beneficial for India, irrespective of the fact whether it's a coalition government or not," a top government official said on the condition of anonymity. On the FTA front, there are no changes. Trade pact with Oman may be delayed by a few months as the new government may take some time to understand it ... the fate of UK trade pact is linked to UK elections. Besides this, trade deal with EU is just midway. It is nowhere near conclusion.

India.According to Deepak Jasani, Head of Retail Research, HDFC securities Ltd, events like the passage of a vote of confidence, the announcement of the council of ministers and their portfolio allocation, and policy announcements (including the Union Budget) could lead to an increase in the confidence of foreigners."The valuation of Indian equities may look better in case Nifty EPS (earning per share) is upgraded based on the revived momentum of the economy post the new government settling down to business," Jasani said.Indications of a rate cut by the US Federal Reserve or the RBI could also lead to heightened interest in Indian equities. If monsoon arrives on time and makes a good beginning across the country in terms of spread and intensity, FPIs may rework the earnings estimates of corporates and start investing, he said.Meanwhile, on Thursday, the 30-share Sensex rose 692.27 points, or 0.93 per cent, to close at 75,074.51.

NEW DELHI. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) kept the key repo rate unchanged to 6.5% on Friday, as it remains focused on 'withdrawal of accommodation'

This was the eighth time the RBI's Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) decided to keep the key rates unchanged. The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) plans to continue its focus on withdrawing its accommodative policy. Additionally, a normal south-west monsoon is anticipated, which is expected to enhance kharif crop production and improve water storage levels in reservoirs.Repo rate -The six-member committee of the RBI decided to maintain the repo rate at its current level. Among the committee members, four voted in favor of keeping the rate unchanged, while two members voted against the decision.

The Standing Deposit Facility (SDF) rate stays put at 6.25%, while the Marginal Standing Facility (MSF) rate remains steady at 6.75%."It decided by a 4 to 2 majority to keep the policy repo rate unchanged at 6.50 per cent. Consequently, the standing deposit facility (SDF) rate remains at 6.25 per cent and the marginal standing facility (MSF) rate and the Bank Rate at 6.75 per cent," said RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das.He further added that the MPC also decided by a majority of 4 out of 6 members to remain focused on withdrawal of accommodation to ensure that inflation progressively aligns to the target, while supporting growth.GDP forecast for FY25 at 7.2% - RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das has announced an increase in the projected real GDP growth for the financial year 2024-25, setting it at 7.2%, up from the previous estimate of 7%."GDP growth that we are now projecting for the current financial year 2024-25 is 7.2% with Q1 at 7.3%, Q2 at 7.2%, Q3 at 7.3%, and Q4 at 7.2%. The risks are evenly balanced," said the RBI Governor. Inflation forecast -The RBI kept the inflation forecast for FY25 steady at 4.5%. Shaktikanta Das affirmed the RBI's dedication to restoring inflation to the target of 4% over the long term."Assuming a normal monsoon, CPI inflation for 2024-25 is projected at 4.5 per cent with Q1 at 4.9 per cent; Q2 at 3.8 per cent; Q3 at 4.6 per cent; and Q4 at 4.5 per cent. The risks are evenly balanced,' said Shaktikanta Das.Revision of bulk deposit limits for banks - The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) is considering revising the definition of bulk deposits for Scheduled Commercial Banks (excluding Regional Rural Banks), Small Finance Banks, and Local Area Banks.Currently set at Rs 2 crore, the proposed new limit for SCBs and SFBs would be Rs 3 crore, while for Local Area Banks, it would be Rs 1 crore, aligning with the RRBs. Guidelines on this will be issued soon.Rationalisation of export and import regulations - RBI plans to streamline export and import regulations under the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA), 1999, to offer more operational flexibility to Authorised Dealer banks. This aims to simplify procedures, reflecting changes in global trade dynamics. Draft regulations will be available for feedback on the RBI website by June 2024 before finalisation.

Digital payments intelligence platform -To enhance security in digital payments, RBI is proposing the establishment of a Digital Payments Intelligence Platform.

This platform aims to reduce payment frauds by enabling real-time data sharing across payment systems.A committee, led by AP Hota, former MD & CEO of NPCI, has been formed to provide recommendations within two months on setting up this infrastructure. Inclusion of recurring payments in the e-mandate framework - RBI is considering including recurring payments like Fastag and NCMC balances replenishment in the emandate framework. This will introduce an automatic replenishment facility triggered when balances fall below a set threshold. Additionally, the requirement for pre-debit notification 24 hours before the actual debit may be exempted for such payments.

Victory on Thursday in front of a sell-out 47,000 crowd in Shenyang would have sent China into the final qualifying round for the 2026 World Cup. Instead, they were the inferior side for long periods and missed a penalty, before Zhang Yuning rescued a point with 11 minutes left in a deflating 1-1 draw.President Xi Jinping once said that he wanted China to win the World Cup, but they have only reached the tournament once when they lost all three games and failed to score a goal in 2002."There is no blessed land or miracle in Chinese football," staterun outlet The Paper said following the Thailand stalemate.Fans vented their frustrations on social media site Weibo, with one writing: "There is no strategy, no coordination! It is a mess!"Going into their last group game on Tuesday, China are second behind already qualified South Korea with eight points in hand. Thailand are third with five oints.

The top two reach the next qualifying stage.

However, China faces a dauning trip to Son Heung-min's South Korea while Thailand hosts basement side Singapore. Thailand will go through if China lose against the best team in the group and Thai's win while also making up the goal difference against the worst team. The country's long-suffering fans were no more optimistic, even if their team is still in the driving seat in second place and can guarantee progression with a draw in Seoul.

De Bruyne, Lukaku still the keys for rebuilding Belgium

De Bruyne said at the time Belgium were "too old" and new boss Domenico Tedesco, just 38, is leading an overhaul of the team while still relying on a smaller core of elder statesmen.

PARIS. A woeful 2022 World Cup campaign marred by infighting marked the end of the road for much of Belgium's venerated golden generation, but two integral figures, Kevin De Bruyne and Romelu Lukaku, remain in a squad comprising plenty of fresh faces. After the high of a third-place finish at the 2018 World Cup in Russia, Belgium failed to live up to expectations in Qatar with an ageing side, and Eden Hazard's retirement accompanied the departure of coach Roberto Martinez before others followed suit in the

Scotland 'not surprised' topping Group B which has England, Australia: Michael Leask

New Delhi. Scotland's Michael Leask has claimed that the team isn't surprised that they're topping Group B at the moment above both Australia and England at the moment. Scotland, whose first game with England was washed out because of rain, won their match against Namibia on June 6. The two points helped them to leapfrog Australia to the top of the table.Speaking at the post-match press conference, Leask, who was the Player Of The Match, said Scotland has got a great squad and others might say it is a surprise to see them at the top of Group B. The all-rounder said that they have two games left to go and would back themselves to get the win and top the group

'Look, we've got a hell of a squad. It's no surprise to us. It might be a surprise to some. England will probably say it was a surprise to them the other day that we're 90 off 10 overs. It doesn't surprise me. This team's got great depth. We've played together for a number of years, a number of us. We've got some new fresh blood so it doesn't really surprise us that we're in this position. And yeah, we've got two more huge games and Still a lot of cricket to play Leask went to show caution, saying that Scotland could end up being at the bottom of the group if they lose the next two games and feels the next two games and feels there's still a lot to play for. He called the match against Oman a huge fixture for the side."Yeah, well we're only top of the table with two games to go. Those two games could put us bottom of the table. So, we've still got a lot of cricket to play, there's still 80 overs of cricket to play and there's still a lot of other teams to to play and there's still a lot of other teams to do a lot of other things as well. So, we can only do what we can control. We've got Oman on Sunday which is a huge fixture for us and then we go again," said Leask.

why can't we top the group at the New Delhi. Sunil Chhetri has lamented the fact that India couldn't get the win against Kuwait in his farewell game on June 6, Thursday. India and Kuwait squared off in a high-stakes match in the FIFA World Cup qualifier at the Salt Lake stadium in Kolkata, as Chhetri bowed out from the national team. A win would have more or less guaranteed India's progression to the third round of the World Cup qualifiers.However, both teams ended up playing out a goalless draw in front of a packed crowd in Kolkata. The draw means that India will need to beat Qatar in their next game to seal qualification. A loss could mean Kuwait can take the second spot if they beat Afghanistan. Speaking to the media after the game, Chhetri said he wished that the team got the 3 points on the night. The legend feels that the team can get the job done in Qatar.

a cloud of doubt hanging over the most crucial component of the sport, the pitch. In two back-to-back games at the Nassau International Cricket Ground in New York the venue for the high-profile India-Pakistan game on Sunday - teams have been bowled out for less than 100 and the chases haven't been easy.

T20 WORLD CUP: SCHEDULE | POINTS TABLE

- Sri Lanka were dismissed for 77 and it took South Africa 16.4 overs to get over the line. The Indian top-order also struggled to chase 97 against Ireland on Wednesday. While the Irish looked like fish out of water while batting, Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli and Rishabh Pant too had to struggle before India opened their account.
- What's more crucial is the fact that the winner of the toss is calling the shots. In addition to the up-and-down nature of the pitch, the 10:30 am starts have meant the white ball is moving around so much that batting is looking really hard at the moment.
- "Yes, the toss is crucial and fortunately we won the toss today (against Ireland). It allowed us to control the game," batting coach Vikram Rathour said. But it didn't take too long for the discussion to veer towards the India-Pakistan match and when he was asked what would be a par score batting first, Rathour merely said: "Whatever we can get".
- Former India spinner Harbhajan Singh, who is doing commentary here, too sounded concerned. "The worrying bit is one delivery is shooting up, one is keeping a bit down. Anything can happen on a track like this," Harbhajan told TOI.
- The one man who had to deal fire with fire was skipper Rohit. Despite a shaky start, he held on to score 52 before being hit by a ball that rose up to hit his shoulder. The captain retired hurt, though he later clarified that "it's just a little sore" and there's no concern about his participation in the Pakistan game.
- "It's just a little sore (the arm). Quite unsure of what to expect from the pitch. Not aware on what it is to play like on a pitch that's five months old," Rohit said. "I don't think the wicket settled down even when we batted second. There was enough for the bowlers."
- Rohit has played enough cricket to know that the decibels will increase manifold when it's Pakistan and any adverse result will add to the noise. "I don't know what to expect from the pitch to be honest, but we will prepare as if the conditions are going to be like this," the skipper said.Rathour, on the other hand, is banking on the quality of India's batting lineup to deal with whatever challenges that come their way.

Son tells South Korean football bosses not to rush coach search SINGAPORE. Son Heung-min told South Korean football chiefs not to rush their search for a permanent coach as Jurgen Klinsmann lashed out over his sacking in February. Tottenham star Son scored twice as South Korea booked their place in the final round of World Cup qualifying on Thursday with a 7-0 thrashing away at Singapore. The Koreans were playing under their second interim coach since Klinsmann was fired following their semi-final exit at the Asian Cup earlier this year in Qatar.

Kim Do-hoon will again be in caretaker charge against China at home on Tuesday.

Even if it takes time, I think it's important for us to find a coach that suits us and the kind of football we want to play," the skipper Son told reporters in Singapore after the big win. Under-23 coach Hwang Sun-hong was put in temporary charge for two World Cup qualifiers in March but his reputation took a heavy hit when South Korea failed to qualify for the Paris Olympics.

Son said it "really is not easy" to be without a permanent coach, but added: "The players are making an effort to adapt, allowing us to play well in a relatively positive atmosphere."Klinsmann was fired after only a year at the helm after the Koreans were beaten 2-0 by underdogs Jordan at the Asian Cup.Just prior to his sacking, it emerged there had been a bust-up on the eve of the semi-final between Son and Lee Kang-in of Paris Saint-Germain, leaving the skipper with a dislocated finger.Klinsmann lifted the lid on the incident in an interview with The Athletic and blasted the Korea Football Association for making him the scapegoat."In the Korean culture, somebody has to take responsibility, take the blame," the former Germany striker said in the interview with ex-England forward Alan Shearer."They made us (coaches) responsible for the fight."The KFA were last month rebuffed in their search for Klinsmann's successor by their top target Jesse Marsch when the former Leeds United boss chose Canada instead. The KFA reportedly talked to the American Marsch and Iraq's Spanish coach Jesus Casas, with 71-year-old Senol Gunes from Turkey and former Saudi Arabia coach Herve Renard also in the picture.Klinsmann said the KFA should have known what they were getting when they hired him to replace Portugal's Paulo Bento.I tried to adjust to a lot of things, but if you want me to 100 adjust to 100 percent of what you do, then why did you hire a foreigner in the first place?" he said."If you wanted it to just be the Korean way, it would be much easier to just take a Korean coach, right?"
